From Reminiscences of Public Men in Alabama, p. 398-399:

"HARRELL HOBDY of Pike, was a planter of extensive wealth and a good financier. He was for many years a leading man in the county, and seldom failed of an election before the people. He served the people in the House and Senate, with sound practical ability, and close attention to business. An old settler in the State, acquainted with its prominent public men, a Democrat, unvarying in his adherence to its principles and organization, he had the confidence in council of the leading men of the party. He had no other ambition than to serve the people faithfully, and to keep the ship of State on the right track. He was in no wise selfish as a politician or public man; but would talk a good deal of his possessions, and give, as a reason for wanting the Legislature to adjourn, that he wished to visit his plantations in Arkansas, and perhaps in other States. This may have been a weakness with him, and if so it was certainly innocent, and hurt nobody. MR. HOBDY was an excellent citizen, and died a few years ago."

From: Back Tracking in Barbour, by Anne Kendrick Walker, pp.33-37:

"HARRELL HOBDY was sheriff at the first Circuit Court held in Barbour - the fourth Monday in March 1833. In the 1830's HARRELL HOBDY, and intrepid settler from South Carolina built the bridge."

(I believe he "came from" North Carolina, but it is possible that the Hobdy family was in South Carolina a while before they came to Alabama.EM)

"It's wooden piers were sunk in the poisonous swamp. The approaches were over slough bridges. It was a tall bridge in those days and bore the weight of caravans."

"Early in February the scouts discovered a band of seventy-five warriors in camp near HOBDY'S BRIDGE and immediately reported to Captain Cooper, who with his command went into camp near the home of HARRELL HOBDY, a battle followed." On page 47: "In the thick of the fighting HARRELL HOBDY received a wound in the thigh."

ROBERT L. HOBDY.... son of HARRELL HOBDY.

"He was born in Pike county, Ala., in 1840, a son of HON. HARRELL HOBDY and JANE (McNEIL) HOBDY, who were natives of North Carolina, but who came, when children, to Alabama and were here married. HARRELL HOBDY was reared on the home plantation to habits of industry, but school facilities were not to be had in Pike county in those days, and it was not until he had reached man's estate that his literary education was begun. Feeling the absolute need of knowledge, he began to apply himself to books, reading and studying at night and all spare moments, being assisted, after his marriage, by his wife, who was a highly educated and accomplished lady. In due time he became noted for his erudition, and his progress in his vocation of planting was characterized by the same methods that marked his educational progress --indomitable perseverance, energy and industry. At his marriage he was without a dollar but he had set before his mental vision a goal that he determined to reach in the struggle for wealth, and by doing farm work in the daytime, assisted by his faithful wife, and by splitting rails at night, he reached the point which had been his aim and became one of the wealthiest planters of Pike county. He has always taken an active part in politics and public affairs, and fully qualified himself for any position within the power of his fellow citizens to give him, or which he might be called upon to fill. He was one of the first sheriffs of Pike county, and in 1844 and 1845 represented his district in the state legislature, and from 1853 to 1857 served in the state senate with ability and to the full satisfaction of his constituents. He assisted in the removal of the Indians from the state and was wounded at HOBDY'S BRIDGE, from the effects of which wound he died a premature death in the spring of 1862, and was followed to the grave by his amiable widow a few months later.

The father of HARRELL HOBDY was EDMUND HOBDY, a native of North Carolina, of Scotch-Irish descent. He was the father of eight sons and several daughters by his wife NANCY HARRELL, and was a pioneer of Pike (now Bullock) county, where he died about the year 1848, having been preceded to the grave by his wife. ROBERT L. HOBDY is one of a family of twelve children and was reared on the home plantation."

From History of Barbour County, by Mattie T. Thompson:

"John McNeil was the first man buried in Barbour County and he was buried at Pea River on his own plantation in 1833. It is recorded that Indians assisted in burying him and carved his coffin out of the trunk of a large tree. His family moved to a farm a mile west of Louisville to be farther away from the Indian's Village.

Among the settlers of this particular section was Mrs. Harrell Hobdy - Jane."

From Memorial Record of Alabama, Vol 1, Brant & Fuller 1893, "The father of MRS. JANE (McNEILL) HOBDY died in North Carolina, and some time after that event his widow and her family moved to southeast Alabama, where she ended her days."

settled three or four miles beyond the site of Pea River Church. JOHN McNEIL died the first or second year after coming to Alabama, leaving one son and a family of daughters. He was the first white man buried in Barbour County. His son became Dr. J. C. McNEILL, who died in Clayton in 1875. The daughters married while this was a frontier region, except the youngest who married Dr. E. M. HERRON in 1841. The others were MRS. JOHN WINDHAM, MRS. CURRIE, MRS. EMANUEL COX, MRS. HARRELL HOBDY, and MRS. J. S. WILLIAMS.

MRS. LONG married LEMUEL LONG who lost his life in the Indian War of 1837. MRS. LONG is buried at the Prebysterian Church."

From: The Eufaula Times & News, Thursday, May 7, 1903
"MRS. R. L. HOBODY died this morning at her home in Union Springs. She was formerly MISS MARY BUFORD and spent her early life in Eufaula. She was the daughter of JUDGE JEFFERSON BUFFORD. She was married near Tuskegee to MR. HOBODY in 1868. Survivors are her husband and five children, Messrs ROBERT and BUFFORD HOBODY and Misses ANNIE, MARIE, & JENNIE HOBODY. She is a relative of M. R. Q. EDMONSON'S family and the late MR. WM. PERTRY'S family of Eufaula. Buried in Eufaula."

From: Memorial Record of Alabama, Vol. 1, Personal Memoirs, of ROBERT L. HOBODY, pp 532-533, Brant & Fuller, 1893:

"ROBERT L. HOBODY, of Union Springs, is one of the most successful of Bullock County's planters. He was born in Pike County, Ala., in 1840, a son of HON. HARRELL and JANE (McNEILL) HOBODY who were natives of North Carolina, but who came, when children, to Alabama and were here married." (See HARRELL HOBODY & JANE McNEILL HOBODY for the next section of this article as it is about ROBERT'S parents, and the BUFORD part of this article is under MARY BUFORD HOBODY, ROBERT'S wife.)

"ROBERT L. HOBODY is one of a family of twelve children and was reared on the home plantation. He attended, first, the schools of his neighborhood and then entered Auburn college, where he was engaged in his studies when the Civil War broke out.

In April, 1861, he entered the Seventh Alabama Infantry as sergeant, having enlisted for one year. The first six months were passed at Pensacola, Fla., and his first engagement was at Fort Pickens. The remainder of the year MR. HOBODY was with Gen. A. S. Johnston in the army of the Tennessee, and took part in the battle of Shiloh.

At the expiration of his term of enlistment MR. HOBODY returned to his home, but in a short time thereafter entered the Thirty-ninth Alabama infantry as lieutenant, and participated in all the marches and engagements of his regiment, including Missionary Ridge, Murfreesboro, through Kentucky with BRAGG, Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain and the Georgia and Atlanta campaign, and while at Atlanta was severely wounded in his right arm and disabled for a few months, which he passed at home.

Recovering from his wound, he rejoined his command at Corinth, Miss., but was soon transferred to Johnston's army in North Carolina, and with it took part at Bentonville, the last of that army's battles.

MRS. MARTHA WILLIAMS PURIFOY HOBODY:

Was born September 6, 1814, near the Oconee River, in Hancock County, Georgia. Her father was JOHN PURIFOY, one of three brothers who reached Georgia, from North Carolina, early in the nineteenth century. Their ancestor, Captain THOMAS PURIFOY, had reached the tidewater section of Virginia as early as 1613, and was prominent in colonial matters connected with that colony, having served two terms in the House of Burgesses.

Her mother was NANCY WILLIAMS, daughter of WILLIAM WILLIAMS, and EVELIN MULLINS. She was a ~~sister~~ ^{daughter} to JUDGE PURIFOY, BUCKNER PURIFOY, and OSBORN WILLIAMS PURIFOY, ^{Brother W.M.'s children} and also to PATIENCE WILLIAMS PURIFOY RODGERS. There are several members of the WILLIAMS family now residing in Barbour county. HON. JERE N. WILLIAMS is her first cousin.

She left Georgia with her father's family, on Christmas day, December 25th, 1823, and reached the vicinity of the town of Clayton in the present Barbour county, then a part of Pike county, on the 13th day of January, 1824. The family located near a Baptist church, called Bethlehem, not far from the present town of Clayton. There was but the one Baptist Church at that time, as the division into Primitive and Missionary Churches had not taken place.

The entire trip from Georgia to Alabama was made in ordinary road wagons, except that she remembers that there was a small spring wagon. Articles of household furniture and wearing apparel were packed in the wagons and brought along. At night all generally camped out.

The route from Georgia to Alabama was made through the Indian reservation, which covered a part of West Georgia and part of East Alabama. She remembers seeing Indians as the family was passing through the reservation. All were peaceable and kind, and extended the family many kindnesses and courtesies. While living in Barbour County, then Pike, she remembers seeing, at one sight, five hundred Creek Indians at one sight. These were being transferred to a Western reservation.

On January 5, 1829, in her sixteenth year, she married EDMOND HOBODY, one of several brothers who had emigrated from North Carolina.

In 1831, her husband's and her father's families left their first home near Clayton, and went to the southern edge of Dallas County, near the line of Wilcox. They settled near the present station called Minter, on the Selma and Pensacola division of the L & N R R. Her husband moved to Wilcox county the next year, not far, however, from his first location in Dallas county.

On reaching Dallas county, after leaving Barbour, then Pike, both families camped out until rude log huts could be constructed. Their first houses were hurriedly constructed and were necessarily rude. There being no saw mills in reach, the huts were floored with hewn split logs. As time passed and saw mills were put in operation in reach, other and better buildings were constructed. The main bodies of these were logs and floored with pine plank. The bodies of the houses were added to by constructing shed rooms for which lumber was hauled sometimes considerable distances.

Her father and husband had to go into the woods and clear land for cultivation. There was nothing around except virgin woodland which had to be divested of the heavy timber before a crop could be planted. They were subjected to all the inconveniences and hardships to which all pioneers are subjected.

Her husband's purchase of a house in Wilcox County one year after reaching that community relieved him of the necessity of having to build a second house.

She is the mother of eleven children, three sons and eight daughters. Nine of these grew up, were married and raised families. The other two died in infancy. Four of the eleven are still living.

She had ~~one son~~ ^{2 sons living} (WILLIAM M. HOBODY, John Harrell Hobdy, Edmond Hobdy - deceased) and 7 sons-in-law, to wit: REVEREND WILLIAM SMITH, EDMOND HUNTER, LEONARD MOORE, LESLIE BLOXOM, JOHN SIMPTON, WM. P. CARTER, who were Confederate soldiers during the great war of the sixties. After the war her youngest daughter, FRANCES, married LEWIS H. FITCH, a Virginian, who served as a courier on the staff of STONEWALL JACKSON.

She has thirty four living grandchildren. Some of her descendents have moved off to other states, and communication with them has gradually ceased, consequently she is not able to state the exact number of great grandchildren, and great-great grandchildren she has living.

Though in her ninety eighth year her memory and mental faculties are remarkably good for one of her age. She informed me that she has not had to take a dose of medicine in over fifteen years. When I saw her on the 25th of November, 1911, she was able to get about and wait on herself. While sitting talking to her, she got up from her seat and went into another room and brought out several photographs and showed them to me. Among the rest was a picture of some of my grandchildren to which she called my special attention.

She died Christmas day.

Note: Bible and family records show her death date as December 25, 1911.

Extract from The Montgomery Advertiser dated Sunday Morning, January 7, 1912. A picture in the paper above the write-up showed the following people, Thomas E. Lee, of Furman Wilcox County; his infant son, Thomas Madison Lee; his mother Florence Hunter Lee; Mrs. Martha Hobdy, age 98, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hobdy Hunter. Mrs. Hobdy and Mrs. Hunter are both dead.

By Marie Bankhead Owen

The news came to Judge John Purifoy, State Treasurer, on Christmas day, that his aged and revered aunt, Mrs. Martha Williams Purifoy Hobdy had passed from earth to heaven. And thus was carried from that sparse company of earthly immortals, our Confederate mothers, another saint.

Living quietly in the little hamlet of Snow Hill, barely more than a railway station on the Selma and Pensacola division of the L. and N. in the county of Wilcox, was this survivor of a past age, a woman approaching the centenary of her birth. Today her lips are sealed and the personal history of the near a hundred years through which she lived is locked up from mortal ken because there was no historian by her side to glean from her the rich store of her experience.

In 1814, the year in which this woman was born, Weatherford the great Indian chief, the inspiration of the massacre of Ft. Mims and the leader of his people in battle, surrendered to General Andrew Jackson at his camp at old Ft. Toulouse. Napoleon Bonapart was still in name Emperor of France, although shorn of his powers, and having his principality restored. Thomas Jefferson was living in comfort at Montecello, resting on the laurels of his past political triumphs. James Madison was President of the United States. Daniel Webster was a member of Congress from New Hampshire, his fame unimpaired, his great constitutional debates ahead of him in the Senate by almost two decades.

Before a steamboat plied the Alabama river, and seventeen years before the University of Alabama was opened she was numbered among the living. Mississippi was still a territory with the eastern half now Alabama, a part of her geographical limits. She lived through the entire history of Alabama from its territorial division, its entry into the sisterhood of states of the Federal government, and throughout the entire administrative history of the commonwealth.

She saw the passing of the old field school house, and its substitution by the model plant of today. She lived through a period of unprecedented scientific discovery and practical inventions, witnessing the advance in the modes of transportation from the pack horse of the pioneer where home seekers made their perilous way through Indian reservation to the sequestered forest homes the government had granted new settlers to a time when birdmen traveled the air from sea to sea, and instantaneous speech was held between men across oceans and continents.

She was a young wife, the mother of several children when the stars fell, and these events that seem like ancient history to the present generation were the familiar things of her early life.

Four Aged Daughters Survive

Mrs. Hobdy was the mother of eleven children, nine of whom lived in maturity, and four of whom survive her. The country wide record for longevity is possibly unsurpassed by this remarkable family. The mother of Mrs. Hobdy died at eighty-five. Several of her own children have died in the sixties and seventies of their years, while four daughters are still living, all of whom are approaching the allotted span of life.

Mrs. Emily Moore and Mrs. Fanny Fitch both of Furman, Ala. are 73 and 64 years of age respectively. Mrs. Clement Carter of Brundidge, Ala. is 69 and Mrs. John Simpson of San Antonio, Texas is 67.

Mrs. Hobdy was born on September 6th, 1814 near the Oconee river, in Hanover, Co., Georgia. Her father was John Purifoy, one of three brothers who immigrated from North Carolina to Georgia early in the last century. The ancestor of this family Captain Thomas Purifoy reached the tidewater section of Virginia as early as 1613 and was prominent in Colonial matters, having served two terms in the House of Burgesses.

The mother of this long-lived and revered woman was Nancy Williams, daughter of William Williams and Eveline Mullins. Her sister was Patience Williams Rodgers, and her brothers were Buckner, Osborne and Judge Williams. Hon. Jere N. Williams, of Barbour County is a first cousin of Mrs. Hobdy and there are others of the family living in the State.

Came To Alabama a Child

A sprightly little girl, not yet entering her teens, little Martha Purifoy came with her parents from Georgia to Alabama in 1824. It was Christmas day when these pioneers left their old settlement and journeyed in wagons with their household goods and personal belongings through the Indian reservation to the new land of promise in the old county of Pike. One can fancy the keen interest the children of that caravan as they made wayside discoveries, running along beside the one spring wagon that was the luxury of the excitement, when tired of riding over the rough highways and half built roads spent the night when the camp was ready. What joy to gather around a glowing fire and assist in the preparation of the evening meal and listen to the stories of hostile Indians which were contradicted by the friendly red people who exchanged neighborly kindness with the travelers and made friendly overtures all along the route. This memorable journey remained a distinct recollection to Mrs. Hobdy unto her dying day. It was of these incidents that she conversed with her nephew upon a recent visit made to her.

Many Indians.

Arriving at their destination the Purifoy family rose to the necessities that confront all pioneers, and the strong men of the clan, for in those days families were clannish and loyal, each member to the other, would clear the fields, cut down the forests, hew the logs for the cabin that was to be the temporary residence of the new settler, and face all the dangers and hardships of pathfinders.

Modern elegance and luxury do not afford the happiness nor the independence that were enjoyed by the men and women of that period and envy, not commiseration, is extended to them.

Hobdy Family

During the period of her childhood in Alabama Mrs. Hobdy remembered an occasion when she saw a company of five hundred Indians who were being transferred to a western reservation.

A Bride of Sixteen

One of the social peculiarities of all pioneer counties is early marriage. The majority of girls in territorial Alabama were wives before they were twenty. Great numbers of women were married at the age of fourteen. On January 5, 1826 while in her sixteenth year, Martha Purifoy married a stalwart North Carolinian who had migrated to the vicinity, Edmond Hobdy, one of several brothers who had come into the new land together. The family homestead of the bride was near Clayton, now in Barbour County, then Pike, and the great advantage from a social and spiritual standpoint was their nearness to the little Baptist Church of Bethlehem.

Two years after her marriage Mrs. Hobdy accompanied her husband who went with her fathers family to a still newer settlement on the Southern edge of Dallas county, near the line of Wilcox. Again the pioneer homes were hewn out of logs, and the fields made ready for the planting. As the community grew in numbers improved houses were constructed, and sawmills supplied the necessary lumber for additions if not entire structures of boards.

Seven of Her Family in War.

It is not likely that there was another woman in the state of Alabama who gave so many sons-in-law to the Confederacy.

William M. Hobdy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hobdy was of course of their own blood, and in addition to this offering six of their daughters sent their husbands to the front to the defense of their country. These men were Rev. William Smith, Edmond Hunter, Edward Moore, John Simpson, William Carter, and Lewis H. Fitch, the latter being a young Virginian who served as courier on the staff of General Stonewall Jackson.

There are now thirty-eight men and women living who are the grandchildren of this pair of people. Some of their descendants moved to other states and communication has gradually ceased, and consequently at the time of her death Mrs. Hobdy did not know the exact number of her descendents to the fourth, and fifth generations.

Well Preserved And Interested In Life.

It was the invariable custom of Mrs. Hobdy's relatives to assemble about her whenever in her reach and pay her the respectful homage due a woman of her years and qualities. She was well preserved in all her faculties, active and full of interest in the life about her.

Her son William lived a half mile from her own place of residence and it was no unusual thing for her to make this walk during the life of this son. She was a woman of the primitive type, simple in her taste, sincere in her friendships, energetic, devoted to home, ambitious to be a good housewife, hospitable, and industrious. She was fond of newspapers, and read with interest the goings on of the world about her as long as her vision was sufficiently clear to read with ease. One of her greatest enjoyments was listening to music, for which she had a good ear.

But she has fallen on sleep, Christmas day when all the world was making merry her sweet and gentle spirit took its flight to keep company with the members of the choir invisible.

Her son William died on Christmas day a few years ago, and so the day had meaning in it, a personal meaning besides the memories of the Star of Bethlehem and the magi and the Holy Babe. Beyond that star that shone over the sacred manger, were other holy infants, for all innocence and childhood is holy, and there she has joined, with the others who have gone before. Thus depart one by one our blessed Confederate mothers.

Peace to their ashes. And sanctity to their memories.
